L - M STREET SERVICE

Service on Taraval Street between the Zoo and West Portal remains unchanged, and is now provided by the L-M streetcar.

Service on the M line is extended via Broad Street and San Jose Avenue to the Balboa Park Station. This new L-M streetcar service provides a convenient connection to both the K Metro and BART at Balboa Park Station.

Weekdays, the L-M streetcar replaces the M bus until 10:00 PM. Saturdays, all cars run downtown on the surface to Trans Bay Terminal. Sundays, K and L streetcars run downtown on the surface to Trans Bay Terminal. The M line is served by buses which operate between Balboa Park Station and West Portal.

Subway Service For

K-L-M RIDERS

(PLUS WEEKEND AND OWL INFORMATION)

MUNI METRO is the City's new light-rail transit system. The sleek Metro cars carry riders through the Market Street subway and up onto the streets of San Francisco.

In September Muni Metro will again expand to offer better, more direct service.

The extension of the K line to Balboa Park offers through service to downtown from Ingleside and City College, while continuing to provide connections to the L and M lines.

METRO SERVICE

In the subway, the K and N lines both travel under Market Street, and above BART, from Embarcadero Station to Montgomery, Powell, and Civic Center Stations, where BART swings south through the Mission corridor.

The N line rises from the subway to the street at Duboce Portal, after leaving Van Ness Station.

The K Metro line continues through the subway under Market Street, and stops at Van Ness, Church, Castro, Forest Hill, and West Portal where it leaves the tunnel and begins street service.

Between Embarcadero Station and West Portal Station the only K line stops are at the nine Muni Metro subway stations.

Beyond West Portal Station, the K makes all regular street stops to Balboa Park Station.

Metro service operates

- weekdays only
- 5 AM to 10 PM

During weekday commute hours, 7 AM to 9 AM and 4 PM to 6 PM, the K line operates as a multi-car train with departures every four minutes.
